DETAILED ACTION

Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Muller (6,852,145). Muller discloses a system for entraining volatile vapors from a storage tank by spraying the liquid from the tank through a downcomer 13 having a non-reducing cross section with an upper inlet 21 for the vapor derived from the top of the tank and transported through a pipe. The vapor flows through natural convection due to the entrainment of vapor in the down-flowing liquid. The liquid with the entrained vapors falls back to the liquid in the tank. Line 21 of column 1 states that the liquid may be crude oil.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Muller in view of either Gibson (2,059,942) or Hewitt (5,076,822).

Muller discloses applicant's basic inventive concept, an vapor entrainment system for an oil tank which captures volatile vapors in a down flowing liquid stream, substantially as claimed with the exception of cooling the liquid stream prior to absorbing the vapors. Gibson and Hewitt each show this feature to be old in the vapor entrainment and recapture art (see Hewitt's heat exchanger 40 and Gibson's heat exchanger 53). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention from the teaching of either Gibson or Hewitt to modify the entrainment device of Muller by adding refrigeration means to cool the liquid prior to vapor contact to increase the sorption capacity of the liquid and to provide cooling to the liquid in the tank to reduce the production of vapor.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Pozivil, Delahunty, Kerr, Maher et al and Christensen show vapor entrainment systems which use the contents of the tanks the vapors originate from to entrain vapors to return them to the tank.
